PASSPORT

Requirements for U.S. Passport - Additional Pages

Please complete the U.S. State Department's DS-4085 form when needing to add additional visa pages to your current passport. We highly recommend adding additional visa pages to your passport when:

- ✓ (3) or less pages are remaining in your passport and your passport is more than one year away from the expiration date.

IMPORTANT:

- The last three to four pages in your passport are NOT visa pages. These are endorsement pages use by the passport agency to make amendments to your passport. Visas and entry/exit stamps should not be affixed or stamped on the endorsement pages.
- When applying for a travel visa many countries require that your passport have two blank visa pages that are adjacent to each other.
- You may apply for additional visa pages twice and maybe three times (at the passport agency's discretion) in the passport's lifespan. It is recommended to apply for a passport renewal once visa pages have been added to your passport after the second time.
- TPAVC does recommend for frequent travelers apply for 48 additional visa pages versus the standard 24 page at no additional cost.
- Please check the remaining validity of your passport, most countries require 6 months remaining validity when obtaining a travel visa. It may be more cost effective to consider applying for a new passport.
